Water Ban Eased For Evergreens

Boys Caught Attempting Third Break

Two Andover juveniles were apprehended about 7 p.m. Sept. 23 in the act of attempting their third break at Hills Hardware on Main St.

The boys, one 12 and the other 14, were quickly linked with the previous robberies by the tread of a sneaker which matched a print taken by Officer John Murray, following one of the earlier breaks.

Police said the boys were also responsibile for recent breaks at Colonial Builders on Park St. and the Liberty Mutual Building on Chestnut St. While no money was missing in these latter breaks, a total of $80 and two radios were taken from Hills.

The pair was spotted Thursday by Officer William Atwood in the process of attempting to force entry through a window from the roof of the same shed which provided access for the earlier robberies.

The ban on watering has been lifted for two weeks to give Andover evergreens some drought relief, but full restrictions remain on all other outdoor uses of water.

The waiver was announced Tuesday by Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Board of Selectman.

Evergreens can be killed if their root systems are excessively dry when hit by frost, Allen explained. To give property owners a chance to protest this sort of landscape growth, and this sort only, Manager Richard Bowen reports that the watering of evergreens is to be permitted for a maximum of two weeks.

The watering may be done with a hose, but must be directed at the root system of the evergreens. Strictly banned is the use of sprinklers.

Allen reported at the selectmen's meeting that Haggett's Pond has dropped just nine inches in the last two months, a loss he said is roughly equivalent to what could be expected from evaporation. He added a thank-you to the people for their handling of the drought situation.

No solution to the overall water

Three Selectmen Attend Association Convention

Selectmen William Stewart, Roger Collins and Paul W. Cronin will attend the 37th annual statewide town meeting of the Massachusetts Selectmen's Assn. which is expected to bring a record-breaking attendance of 700 or more town officials to Plymouth today and Oct. 1 and 2.

The selectmen will accept Andover's prize as a first place winner in the division of the annual town report contest held for communities of 10,000 to 19,999 population.

The association's annual conclave is held in the form of a town meeting. Up for consideration this year is a 22 article warrant, much of it directed at raising organized support for legislative measures.

- One which would permit municipalities to tax the leasehold interests where property is owned by the federal government but leased to private enterprise.
- One to prevent the transfer of real estate to tax exempt organizations unless approved by the Board of Selectmen, the conservation committee and the board of assessors of the town affected.
- One to see if the association will support legislation to permit the municipalities to create departments of public safety which would permit the combining of police and fire departments.
- One asking legislation to prevent the changing of any zoning ordinance or bylaw except by a two-thirds majority at an annual open town meeting.

Punchard Grads Seek To Revive Association

A group of some 25 Punchard High School alumni met last week and again Wednesday, working toward reactivation of the once lively Punchard Alumni Assn.

The original Punchard organization dates to 1859. It was active until World War II when the program was curtailed. Envisioned now is a Punchard-Andover High School Alumni Assn.

A kick-off banquet and dance has been scheduled for Nov. 6 at the Knights of Columbus' Briarcliff, and committees named to handle both the reorganization plans and the dinner meeting.

Handling general reactivation planning is a committee headed by Irving J. Whitcomb. Dorothy E. Towne was named treasurer and Barbara C. Cannon, secretary.

Library Closing Doors One Week

Memorial Hall Library will close its doors from Oct. 6 to Oct. 12 while several thousand books from the main room are moved to temporary quarters on the top floor. The main reading room is to be closed off during the period that the new wing is under construction.

Students and adults who need books during that period are advised to take them out in advance of Oct. 6. Persons who cannot make early check-out arrangements may make requests through the Ballardvale branch. Please, say library officials, do not return ANY books to Memorial Hall during the shut down period.

For detailed schedules and information see the library column, page 7.

Clerk Spurs Voter Meter Campaign In Bay State

Andover Town Clerk Irving Piper has been waging a behind-the-scenes campaign to stall state adoption of costly voting machines and encourage Legislative approval of an electronic voting technique that would tabulate precinct ballots in a matter of minutes.

The clerk has been fighting a battle for time, working with one eye on Andover swelling voter registration and the other on the actions of the Great and General Court.

Piper was the only town clerk in the Commonwealth to appear at a Boston hearing earlier this year in support of a measure that would establish IBM's Harris Voter Meter as the device sought to speed the vote tabulation process. And he was instrumental in seeing that the electronic meter was displayed and its advantages explained at a state-wide meeting of town clerks.

The movement has become enough of a groundswell to cause Sec. of State Kevin White to schedule a Georgia trip for Norman Gleason, supervisor of elections. In October Gleason will observe the computer oriented voting procedure in action in a DeKalb County election.

Piper expects a couple of Massachusetts trial runs to result and has been assured by Supv. Gleason that Andover could be one of the show case towns selected.

Why is the clerk so hot in pursuit of general acceptance of the technique he approves? Money is the answer.

If the state, in the interest of a faster and more accurate ballot count, should vote in the traditional voting machine as an election requirement, it would cost Andover $50,000 to $60,000 to equip its present six precincts.

If the number of precincts should have to be enlarged, the cost would soar even higher. Just to add another six hand-count precincts in Andover would push costs from $6,000 to $12,000 or $14,000 the clerk told the selectmen Tuesday.

The initial town investment for the computer, punch card ballot system would, on the other hand, run about $10,000, Piper reports.

With this technique, printing costs are cut to a minimum since the ballot itself remains in the voter booth. Instead of marking X's, citizens insert a punch card into the ballot unit and punch holes to indicate the candidates of their choice.

Indications are that there are fewer spoiled ballots with this method than those now in use, the clerk said.

Piper pointed out that Andover is in a perfect position to take immediate advantage of the electronic meter since a local business college already has the necessary equipment for processing the ballots and in time, the new Regional Vocational and Technical High School will also have a full computer set-up.

SORORITY DINNER OCT. 7

Members of Alpha Phi Chi Sorority of South Church will begin a new season Thursday, Oct. 7. The traditional dinner at 6:30 in Fellowship Hall, South Church, will precede the business meeting and installation of officers.

To be inducted are Mrs. Arthur Rairigh, president; Mrs. Grant Burwell, vice president; Mrs. Paul Simeone, recording secretary; Mrs. Winston Blake, corresponding secretary; Miss Gladys Hill, treasurer.

An old-fashioned penny social will follow the meeting, for which each member will donate a product of her kitchen or garden or needle. Canned goods are also acceptable, but not items classed as "white elephants".

CHARLES F. DALTON JR.

Charles Dalton N. H. Attorney

Charles F. Dalton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dalton, 57 Chestnut St., has been admitted to practice before the New Hampshire Bar.

The young attorney is a graduate of the Boston University School of Law where he was chosen to participate in the Ford Foundation Voluntary Defending Program. This program gave a limited number of third-year students the opportunity to prepare and try criminal cases in the district courts of Boston.

Dalton, who graduated from Punchard High School and Lawrence Academy in Groton, received his AB degree in English from Colgate University in 1962.

He and his wife, the former Janice E. Lewis of Bradford, make their home in Concord, N. H. where the attorney has accepted a position with the law offices of Senator Paul A. Rinden.

Following his brother at Boston University Law School is William J. Dalton who began his work at BU this fall. William Dalton is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire.

Jason Wright Has New Post

Jason Wright, 13 Carisbrooke St., has been appointed to the position of employee services manager at Raytheon, Andover.

In this new position, Wright will be responsible for employee insurance and benefits, training, and community relations.

Mr. Wright's most recent assignment was that of assistant labor relations manager. He joined Raytheon in 1958, and has held a variety of positions within the Industrial Relations Department.

He is presently active in the area as manager of the manufacturing division of the Greater Lawrence United Fund, member of the Chamber of Commerce Education Committee, Greater Lawrence Personnel Assn. and the American Society for Training and Development.

WATER BAN OFF 2 WEEKS

shortage in sight, however. Water Supt. Donald C. Bassett said earlier this week that at his last check the water level of the pond was at just 5'9".

The sale of town owned Woods Hill property sought by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., scheduled to take place during the selectmen's meeting, was postponed at the request of AT&T's local attorney, Charles Hatch.

Hatch requested that the board refuse all bids to give the telephone company time to clarify certain of the specifications advertised. "Two or three items are unclear," he said.

The specs were intentionally tailored to attract AT&T's bid and no other. Voters at a special town meeting actually approved sale of the land to the firm for installation of an electronic tower, but it had to be offered for public bid because of state laws regulating the sale of municipally owned property.

In addition, Hatch gave the board a written request for an easement over a portion of the land the town intends to retain in the area. The company wants the right to use a 50 foot width as a roadway into tower site. Also asked, the right to erect a temporary tower in the process of confirming map studies and determining the exact height of the proposed permanent tower.

Town Hall

Other items on the agenda:

● The board discussed the new town hall with Lawrence Nutley and Scott Quinlan of the Boston architectural firm of Campbell, Aldrich and Nutley.

Nutley told members that his company does contemporary buildings, and cited the Methuen Town Hall and the Bradford Junior College library in Haverhill as nearby examples. CA&N architects are also responsible for the design of the new Tufts University Library, work at the University of Massachusetts and handled the working drawings for designers of the Boston City Hall.

Architect Quinlan said he has examined both the Shorten garage property on Park St. and the municipal parking lot, the two remaining sites under consideration for construction of the municipal office building.

He said that off hand he would consider the Shorten location a tough one, but he said that the board should hold its final decision until an architect is hired and can give them specific advice.

● Manager Richard Bowen reported that a town-ordered appraisal of the Shorten property indicates that $26,300 is a "sound value" price for the location. This sum is to be offered Owner William Shorten.

It is understood from other sources that Shorten is asking the full $40,000 budgeted as a covering sum by town meeting when it was decided to add this site to town holdings as a control over its future development.

● The manager reports that Dr. Peter Piacos has expressed dissatisfaction with the $2,500 offered him for Shawsheen Rd. land he volunteered to sell the town as an addition to the new high school site.

The Board, at Bowen's suggestion, agreed that if the doctor's final decision is against sale at this price, the matter is to be dropped.

The land is not considered necessary for the school project, though Town Meeting voted its acquisition as a desirable addition.

● Reported, the receipt of a flag from Congressman F. Bradford Morse to be flown at the Ballardvale Community Center. It is certified as a flag that has flown over the Nation's Capitol.

A flag dedication ceremony is planned for Nov. 11, Veterans' Day.

● Approved is the Jaycees request for permission to hold the annual Horribles Parade on Oct. 29. Denied was an additional request for $150 to help defray expenses of this community observance of Halloween. The organization will be advised that it could seek such assistance for another year's parade through an article at town meeting.

● Announced by the manager plans for a formal inspection of Police and Fire Departments by the selectmen on Founders' Day, May 6.

An early American banking house was dedicated at Sturbridge Village yesterday where it becomes part of this center of living history.

Town's Growth Inevitable

(This is one of a series of articles based on material included in the updated Comprehensive Plan for Andover, released in September by the Planning Board.)

The current demand for housing in Andover is heavy enough to convince Planning Consultants Adams, Howard & Oppermann that it is doubtful anything less than creation of a five-acre minimum district would do much to curb the rate of residential growth.

Boosting the minimum lot size in some areas to two-acres might serve as a brake if fewer families had an interest in sinking roots here, but with demand as it is, the consultants rule this out as an adequate zoning control.

What they do recommend is town support for a suggestion from the Merrimack Valley Regional Planning Commission that we ring the community, where it is not already developed to the hilt, with a meandering buffer where five-acre lots would be the minimum.

This support would have to take the form of backing for enabling legislation since Commonwealth zoning statutes require State House consideration of such heavily restrictive acreage requirements.

Other than this, the plan does not call for any lot size changes in the three single-family zones now established.

The consultants do propose, however, that the town tighten its cluster zoning regulations to make for safer controls over the green areas preserved with this subdivision technique. Recognizing that the cluster concept (one which permits variations in frontage requirements so long as the total area of each lot is up to standards) makes for layout flexibility, Adams, Howard & Oppermann would at the same time like to see greater zoning assurances that the green belts preserved with this method do not get eaten up in future development.

The present system of assigning title to open areas classified as "unusable" (swamps and watercourses) to individual lot owners, the town or AVIS is thought to be adequate.

In a cluster, the lots are wedge or pie shaped, arranged to take best advantage of the good building land. Invariably there is land in excess of minimum lot requirements, frequently at the outer reaches of each wedge. In a few instances, such areas have been preserved locally for common usage by homeowners in the development. But since this presents ownership and taxation problems, the more common practice is to assign such "extra" land to the individual lots.

Some of this "reserved" land is usable, and in the consultants opinion, present regulations do not specifically preclude later alteration of these open areas.

The rules need to be more flexible, they say, and additional provisions are recommended to encourage common ownership of open areas. It is suggested that these provisions permit lower minimum lot sizes in situations where all lots actually abut the open land and where at least some of the open space has recreation possibilities.

In discussing land use, the consultants predict that though most of Andover's future residential growth will come in the form of single-family housing, the demand for apartments also will increase.

Nevertheless they favor sticking to present apartment district requirements and to the present policy of no advance designation of such areas. This, they say, "provides an opportunity for each proposal to be judged by the Planning Board and by the whole town through town meeting action."

In suggesting that Andover get itself what is called a Workable Program for eliminating and preventing sub-standard housing conditions, the comprehensive plans point out that right now the town could not qualify for federally aided housing and urban renewal programs, even if it wanted to. A certified "workable program" is a prerequisite.

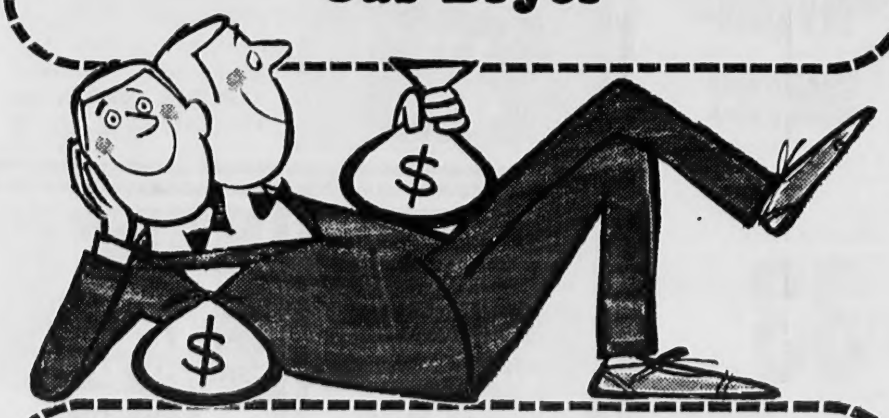

What the consultants advise, urban renewal or no, is a housing code that would call for systematic inspections near the center where sub-standard living conditions are most likely to occur.

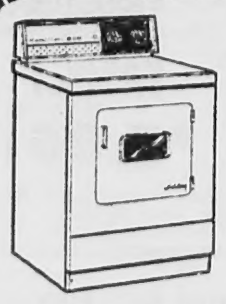

"It would be inappropriate and inefficient to conduct such a program in the outlying single-family areas where accepted standards exceed those which would be imposed through enforcement of the code," says the report.

PA Hosts Talent Search Meet

Phillips Academy was host Monday to 116 representatives of member schools and organizations interested in the two-year-old Independent Schools Talent Search Program.

ISTSP was organized in 1963 by school men motivated by the conviction that independent schools must play a more conscious role in the education of the disadvantaged.

Twenty-one members met that year to devise ways of helping promising students who, because of a lack of resources or cultural advantages, are unable to realize their potential. It was agreed that two years at an independent school could go a long way toward preparing such students for successful college entrance.

The program has met with enthusiasm and membership has grown to 71.

ISTSP's substantial growth is revealed in projected enrollment figures. By 1968 the organization hopes to have 1,200 students enrolled at independent schools across the nation. It's original goal was the enrollment of 65 boys.

James E. Simmons, executive director of the program, spoke Monday of proposals presented to the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity which could mean $1,200,000 in scholarship aid for the support of 300 of the youngsters the program seeks to enroll. Grants from private foundations and corporations are the present main source of financial support. A total $466,000 in private contributions is sought for the coming year.

In the summer of 1964 Dartmouth College began an eight-week course to prepare some ISTSP boys for the curriculum and way of life at a boarding school. This past summer Mt. Holyoke held a similar program for girls. Three more such programs are planned for the summer of '66.

PA has five boys enrolled this year who attended the Dartmouth summer program. It registered an equal number last term.

Representing the academy Monday were Headmaster John M. Kemper, an ISTSP trustee, James R. Adriance, assistant headmaster and Robert Sides, director of admissions.

There from Abbot Academy were Mrs. Alexander Crane, headmistress, and Mrs. Ford Duncan, director of admissions.

lot sizes in situations where all lots actually abut the open land and where at least some of the open space has recreation possibilities.

In discussing land use, the consultants predict that though most of Andover's future residential growth will come in the form of single-family housing, the demand for apartments also will increase.

Nevertheless they favor sticking to present apartment district requirements and to the present policy of no advance designation of such areas. This, they say, "provides an opportunity for each proposal to be judged by the Planning Board and by the whole town through town meeting action."

In suggesting that Andover get itself what is called a Workable Program for eliminating and preventing sub-standard housing conditions, the comprehensive plans point out that right now the town could not qualify for federally aided housing and urban renewal programs, even if it wanted to. A certified "workable program" is a prerequisite.

What the consultants advise, urban renewal or no, is a housing code that would call for systematic inspections near the center where sub-standard living conditions are most likely to occur.

"It would be inappropriate and inefficient to conduct such a program in the outlying single-family areas where accepted standards exceed those which would be imposed through enforcement of the code," says the report.

Gravel Swap Is Discussed

With the School Building Committee's blessing, Manager Richard Bowen is trying to work out a gravel for loam swap which would solve the problem of too little top soil at the high school building site.

With the knowledge that gravel will be needed for development of the land on Lowell St. now being prepared for construction of the Internal Revenue Service Center, Bowen has begun talks aimed at trying to make up the town's loam deficiency by trading off gravel from the school site.

The problem is with trucking, Bowen said this week. The contractor on the IRS job does not have equipment for hauling and presently finds it more practical to sell the loam.

PAUL W. CRONIN

Selectman Is Award Winner

The Greater Lawrence Young GOP Club has announced selection of Paul W. Cronin, a 1964 candidate for state representative, as the recipient of its second Distinguished Service Award.

The award is presented annually to a Republican who has displayed an interest in his party and one who has taken an active part in both local and state civic affairs.

The Andover selectman will receive the DSA at a dinner to be held in his honor at Andover Country Club Oct. 20. A fellow selectman, Roger Collins, is general chairman for the event.

The 1964 award was presented to the current chairman of the Andover Board of Selectmen, Philip K. Allen.

On committees for the dinner are: ticket chairman, Arthur W. Spirdione; publicity, Alexander Harvey Jr.; program book, Fred Tiechart; arrangements and flowers, Diane Knipe and Phyllis Monroe. Also on the committee are Milton Lebowitz, Augustine Sheehy, Dan Dodson, Philip K. Allen, James Wilson, Marcia Davidson, Mark Sweet, Phidias Dantos, Helen Moorikidian, Althes Wood, Angelo Fisichelli, Janet Golen, Donald Golen, Robert Barrett, Donald Walbridge, Dean K. Webster, Arthur Neumark and David Cutler. Susan MacMackin, president of the local Teen-age Republican Club, is active on several committees.

Decorating Tips Will Be Offered

The Andover Garden Club will open its season with an afternoon meeting Tuesday, Oct. 5, at Andover Country Club.

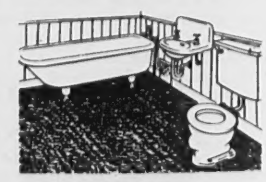

Dessert will be served at 1:30 P.M. to members and their guests. "Decorating With House Plants and Objects D'Art" is the program to be presented by Mrs. Henry Swaebe at 2:15 p.m. Mrs. Swaebe, a member of the Belmont Garden Club, has travelled in Japan and studied Japanese flower arranging. She also has designed for the annual Jordan Marsh Flower Show.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Preston H. Blake and Mrs. Alfred S. Caliri.

Coming Events
October

2 Saturday, Main library open from 10 to 6, all departments.

4 Monday, Main library open 10 to 9; Children's room 2 to 6.
Ballardvale branch open 2-5 and 6-8.

5 Tuesday, Main open 10 to 9; Children's room 2-6. Ballardvale branch closed.
Great Books discussion meeting, 7:30 p.m. Main library. Ask at the desk for meeting room.

6-7-8 Wednesday through Friday. Ballardvale branch open 2-5 and 6-8.
Main library and Children's room closed until Oct. 12.

9 Ballardvale open 10-1 and 2-5. Main library closed.

To The Rescue

While the main library including the Children's room is closed, to facilitate moving the adult and young adult books to the top floor of the Main building, additional open hours will be observed at the Ballardvale branch. Mrs. Martha MacCausland refers all Andoverians to the schedule above for the details.

She also is pleased to announce the installation of a telephone at the branch. The number is new, so put it in your new phone book: 475-0521. The branch is prepared to handle book requests from patrons who want a book sent from the main library to the branch where they will be able to pick it up. Between Oct. 6 and 12, when the main library is closed, a frequent messenger service will help make the book collection at Main available to those desiring it through the branch.

Volunteers Scheduled

The Andover senior high and junior high schools are going to supply brigades of muscled youth to form a human chain to move several thousand books from their present locations to new temporary quarters on the top floor of the library.

Friends of the library on hearing of this, have wished to volunteer also. Therefore, the hour between 10 and 11 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 6, Thursday, Oct. 7 and Friday, Oct. 8 has been set aside for all library patrons who wish to take part in Operation Move. If you would like to join in, come to the library at these times.

Something Concrete

Footings for the new addition are now poured. The original 15-foot foundation of the post-Civil War building is being trimmed and grouted. Some of the granite boulders are so heavy it is a curiosity in engineering. How did they move two tons of granite in a single piece a hundred years ago?

Next step is forming and pouring the new walls. Next week sidewalk superintendents should be able to see the slab floor of the new wing being formed and poured.

Something Special

I'd Like To Go Alone
"I'd like to go away alone
Where there are other, nicer people,
Somewhere into the far unknown,
There, where no one kills another.

"Maybe more of us,
A thousand strong,
Will reach this goal
Before too long.

So wrote Alena Synkova who was one of the 15,000 children to pass through Terezin, and she was one of the fortunate 100 who lived through the experience.

". . . I never saw another butterfly" is a collection of the poetry and drawings of these children who expressed in their work the hope and fear, the beauty and sordidness, the cruelty and courage which pervaded the atmosphere of the camp. This book is really something special.

Great Books

At 7:30 Tuesday, Oct. 5, Robert Rockwell and his assistant discussion leader, Miss Helen Stearns, will welcome members of the Great Books discussion group to the first meeting of the current season. The BOOK OF JOB will be the topic. Meetings are held at the Memorial Hall Library.

The group is open to all residents of Andover and towns nearby. The only requirement is to read in advance and then come with your ideas to the Tuesday evening meetings every other week.

Sets of paper back books with this year's reading have arrived and may be picked up by those who put in advance orders. If you plan to join and have not as yet done so, you may inquire at the desk for information and a set of books which members buy for their own use.

Zoning Board Clears Series Of Decisions

Dr. George J. Colantino, owner of Shawsheen Manor Inc. has been given Zoning Board of Appeals approval for a portion, but not all of his request for a special permit that would allow conversion of property at 250 N. Main St. into apartments.

The doctor sought approval for plans to convert not only the main house, a laundry house, a cow barn, stable and garage to apartments, but permission to erect new buildings on some old foundations.

Citing regulations which permit conversion of one-family homes into multi-dwellings where there can be 2,500 square feet of lot area for each family, the board issued a permit for division of the main house into 11 apartments. The board rejected the balance of Colantino's plans, stating that existing regulations do not cover other than main house conversions.

The board has denied a request from Andover Realty Trust for Parker House Inn which asked for a variance to permit a 108 sq. ft. sign in front of the North Main Street property in an area where 50 sq. ft. is the maximum permissible.

Approved is a special permit which will allow Walter P. Hughes to construct a two and one half story nursing home on three acres of single residence A land off Morton St. Zoning laws permit nursing homes in A-zones with B of A approval.

Also approved are two requests for variances to permit additions to two cottages on Foster's Pond Road, an unaccepted street, by couples who want to develop them as permanent homes. The properties are owned by James F. and Alice W. Galvin and Lawrence W. Blaser. The board took the position that the planned improvements would benefit rather than harm the area.

In still another decision, the board approved a change in the subdivision plans of Sebastian G. Marino, 19 Juniper Rd., giving him permission to build three rather than two houses on land off Prospect Rd. This plan drew objections from abutters who complained of drainage problems, but none from the Planning Board. Pointing out that Marino cannot get a building permit without Board of Health drainage clearance, the board Ok'd plans which it said would leave only a six percent area deficiency overall.

Denied was a request for a variance which would have allowed Palma Abate of Methuen to add six apartments to a nine-apartment property at 126-128 Main St. Area requirements will permit the addition of one apartment only, the board said in its decision.

Also denied, the petition of Joseph L. and Rowana B. Daly for a variance to allow a swimming pool just 13 ft. from the circle of Judson Rd. After viewing the site, the board ruled that putting the pool elsewhere might not be as convenient for the Dalys, but it would not work a hardship.

BOSTON Actors in Beckett's "Waiting for Godot."

Boston Actors Doing Avante Garde Classic

"Waiting for Godot", a play by Samuel Beckett, will be performed Saturday, Oct. 9 at 8:15 p.m. in George Washington Hall, Phillips Academy by the Theater Company of Boston. This single performance in Andover by the Boston group is being presented for the PA student body and faculty, but the public is invited.

Boston drama critic, Elliot Norton, labels "Waiting for Godot" one of the few true classics of avant garde theater, describes it as "brightly played by the Theater Company in a production that is as funny as the most frivolous farce". Norman Nadel, reviewer for The New York World Telegram termed, the acting as an "out-and-out achievement".

David Wheeler directs the company which recently won rave notices in New York for off-Broadway performances of John Arden's "Live Like Pigs."

Tickets are reserved, but there is no charge for admission. To acquire tickets, write, phone or apply in person to the Andover Summer Session office in the basement of George Washington Hall. Tickets will be mailed during the week prior to the performance. Reservations are being made on a first come, first served basis.

One ounce of accomplishment is worth a ton of good intentions.

A Strategic Post

The death of Edmond E. Hammond, secretary and long-term member of the Andover Zoning Board of Appeals has created a vacancy with this quasi legal agency of town government which the selectmen have yet to fill.

It is an appointment that deserves cautious and non-partisan consideration.

The updated Comprehensive Plan prepared and newly released as a blueprint for future development makes it all too clear that if Andover is to preserve its identity as a semi-rural, residential community, it must keep its growth within prescribed and balanced limits and move in advance to conserve land areas for municipal service needs, including recreation.

The Zoning Appeals Board does not write our zoning regulations, but it can virtually rewrite them if it takes any other than a strictly by-the-book approach to interpreting the bylaws. A seat on this board is a strategic post, and a thankless one. People who come asking release from the provisions of our zoning regulations and those who oppose such release are not always temperate.

As of this moment there is just one lawyer on the board. We take the position that it needs another: one with some background to equip him for sorting out the facts at public hearings, one who can lend experience in the area of interpreting regulations and who can give the beleagured chairman a hand with the writing of decisions.

Pessimistic

Earlier this month the School Committee gave official recognition to the Andover Teachers Assn. as the bargaining agent for the professional staff of the public school system.

No such union jargon is written into the agreement made, but it takes little imagination to forsee that the "matters of concern" which the association now has the stipulated right to discuss with policy makers will most frequently relate to salary scales and working conditions.

It is equally obvious that the opinions of association officials will carry more weight now that the School Committee has acknowledged them as spokesmen for the whole of the professional staff. To say that the agreement, incorporated as an article in the school department's rules and regulations, merely formalizes what has long been common practice is a considerable exaggeration.

It is true that representatives of the association have sat in on committee salary talks. But they have been invited for what might more accurately be described as courtesy calls than bargaining sessions.

Now the association is in a position to demand that it be heard; and within fifteen days of its "request" for a joint meeting. This places the whole relationship between the School Committee and the teachers group in an entirely different realm.

The TOWNSMAN does not dispute the committee's wisdom in giving recognition to the professional organization. Nor does it quarrel with the procedure of writing such recognition into the rules and regulations to keep it from being an annual issue.

It is encouraging that such initial accord could be reached without the sort of militant maneuvers faced in some communities, and in a manner that safeguards the rights of the teacher who prefers to speak for himself.

Nor can we quarrel with the overall thesis that the fresh understanding between the policy board and its professional employees will be mutually beneficial. If it does nothing more than provide teachers with the chance to present "considered" opinions with professional detachment, devoid of the sort of emotionalism displayed at a public meeting last spring when some of their number openly sneered at comments of the then curriculum coordinator, it will be of mutual benefit.

We will all certainly profit if it leads to both practical and placid solutions to school labor issues.

But beyond this, what can we possibly hope for that will be "mutually beneficial." Is it any more likely now than before that our teachers will fly in the face of either the School Committee or the Establishment in behalf of a better school system?

The School Committee has already broached the subject of survey-type projects that the association could voluntarily undertake, studies that might point the way to improved teacher-School Committee communications, new or expanded programs, fuller use of the teachers potential in extra-curricular projects etc. etc. And association officials have already expressed their reluctance to become involved with anything that could lead to a crossing of administrative lines. It is an instinctive and not unexpected reaction — and one that encourages our natural pessimism about how really "mutual" the benefit of the new teacher-committee alliance can be.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of The Townsman

After reading decisions of the Zoning Board of Appeals in the local newspapers and having attended several sessions over the past several months, I must make the observation that it is very clear that Andover no longer needs zoning by-laws and regulations but only a Zoning Board of Appeals.

Zoning requirements mean nothing so long as the Board of Appeals feels, by the stretch of the imagination, that 1) approving the variance will bring an additional 5¢ to Andover, and 2) approving will put an additional dollar into the proposing person's pocket. It is very evident by recent past decisions, the low caliber of some individuals serving on the board. It is also evident that such a group is becoming too politically motivated.

The Zoning Board of Appeals carries a lot of weight through its' function and charter. Individuals serving on the board should be capable of understanding and interpreting the zoning by-laws of Andover.

I would therefore recommend that the town manager review and establish requirements to be met by individuals being nominated or serving on the board.

Charles F. Richmond
48 Prospect Rd.

To the Editor of the Townsman:

Purpose and aspiration are the substance of an era. Accordingly, it is useful for a public building to bear an escutcheon indicative of the building's purpose and its builders' aspiration.

For our time and within the sphere of our civic affairs, we have cast our fortunes with the eclectic proposition of visible government to be achieved by equalitaranism and a decent respect for each person. From that we can extract the corollary that;

"Truth wears no uniform and bears no flag. But it is the most loyal ally that freedom knows."

Accordingly, it is suggested that that quotation be placed over the portal of the new high school building; or other appropriate place. It might well be used on the proposed new town hall also.

In Deference . . .

In deference to the opinion of Retired Teacher Bernard M. Kellmurray, 7 Punchard Ave., that an editor's note "destroyed" his Sept. 16 letter criticizing a TOWNSMAN editorial of Aug. 26, we are printing the following explanation of that note.

Mr. Kellmurray was telephoned by the TOWNSMAN editor for an explanation of his use of the word "amateurs" in his comments on an editorial relative to the departure of the school department's curriculum coordinator and the question of a solution to administrative problems left unsettled.

Since Mr. Kellmurray used this word in a paragraph referring to non-professional judgments on school matters, and since the TOWNSMAN editorial had made specific recommendations for the appointment of an assistant superintendent, the editor wanted to determine whether or not this reference was made with the TOWNSMAN in mind.

Mr. Kellmurray reports that he referred to "a few newcomers" as the amateurs he had in mind and objects to the fact that the TOWNSMAN added an explanatory note which did not include the words "a few."

Reprinted here is the full text of the paragraph in question, without additions:

"It is customary for any administrator who needs an Assistant to recognize the need and request such assistance. When Mr. Erickson feels such need, he has the twice evidenced confidence of the town in his superintendency. Newly arrived amateurs cannot compete in their judgment with competent professional judgment. The Superintendent of Schools and all of his staff must be free to do their work without the aid of any specific group in the town."

The local public works board has the authority to grant permits for fishing in Haggett's Pond - but if it does, it can't . . . State engineer Weston said in a meeting at the state house Friday, unequivocally: "Yes, you can grant anyone a permit to fish on your water supply, if you want to, but if you do, we'll recommend to the public health council that your authority to grant permits be revoked." Asked how it is that fishing was allowed on North Andover's water supply, engineer Weston explained that only on complaint is it recommended that fishing be not allowed, and that there had been no complaint from North Andover, that health board Secretary Stacey had complained in Andover.

Wherever you may wish to make your home you owe it to yourself as a prudent planner and wise investor to consider a Deck House. Many times honored for excellence of design, and commended for use of quality materials and superior workmanship, Deck House introduces to you a fresh, exciting new experience in contemporary living—presenting houses that are thoughtfully planned, beautifully functional, soundly constructed and tastefully related to their sites. A Deck House, in one of a variety of plans to suit your particular requirements, may be built for you in any location, on land of your own choice, for a suprisingly modest square footage cost. Or, if you prefer, you may choose from a limited number of attractive sites, available through Deck House, in the pleasant New England communities of Sudbury, Lincoln or Carlisle, Massachusetts. We cordially invite you to visit one of our Model Homes at Hillwinds, off Goodman Hill Rd., in Sudbury, Massachusetts; or we will be pleased to send you descriptive material, illustrating its unique features and optional plans.

By appointment. Telephone (617) 235-1080 or send for completely informative, illustrated brochure to Deck House, Inc., Dept. A-44Box 306, Wayland, Massachusetts.

Guild Dance Next Friday

St. Augustine's School Guild is sponsoring a Get Acquainted Dance to be held Friday, Oct. 8 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Andover Country Club. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

Co-chairmen for the event are Mrs. Robert King and Mrs. Robert Mulligan.

In charge of tickets sales are Mrs. Joseph Luceri and Mrs. Robert Lucy. Decorations will be handled by Mrs. John Lyons and Mrs. Richard Homewood and Mrs. Michael Brennan and Mrs. Paul Warren are co-chairmen of the prize committee.

Assessors Set Tax Deadline

The Board of Assessors of Andover announce a change of the deadline for filing applications for exemptions for veterans, blind persons and elderly (over 70). Chapter 615 of the Acts of the 1965 Legislature changes the date for filing from October 1 to December 15th of the year in which the tax relates. This section of the law becomes effective in 1965.

The purpose of this law is to eliminate the annual one year extension that has been granted each year in the past to veterans, and this year to both the elderly and the veterans.

The law in respect to applications for abatement has not been changed, and these must be filed on or before October 1 of the year to which the tax relates.

Women's Club Opening Year

The Shawsheen Village Women's Club will hold it's first meeting of the fall season Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. at Andover Country Club.

The program for the evening will be "An Evening With Don Kent". Kent, a meteoroligist, is a radio and television personality. He will show a color film, "The Four Seasons", which illustrates various weather patterns and cloud formations which he has observed in his traveles throughout New England and along the Long Island coast.

Be honest in your convictions and your problems will take care of themselves.

Committee Need Not Clear School

There is nothing in state statutes to indicate that local school committees must approve new school building plans before they can receive clearance from the School Building Assistance Commission for state aid.

This is Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien's ruling to the School Committee's question about whether or not it must clear the new high school as planned - including electric heating system chosen by the town manager - in order to protect the town's chance for 40 percent state aid.

The SBAC must approve the whole of the school, heating system, O'Brien said, Wednesday.

Make Your Husband Relax

AS DEMONSTRATED BY GINO CAPPELLETTI

The scene is Leone's last Saturday afternoon.

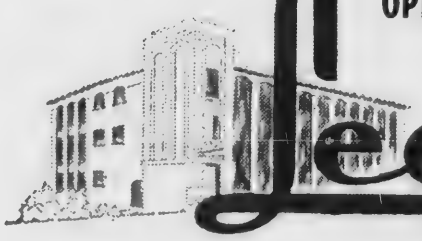

Demonstrating the relaxing aspects of the Heywood-Wakefield Swivel Rocker is Gino Cappelletti, star of the Boston Patriots and American Football League's leading point scorer in 1964.

The high back Swivel Rocker with headrest is designed to "unbend" your husband (or anyone else who sits in it) . . . a "must" commodity in every home to ease the pressures of today's accelerated pace.

Haywood-Wakefield has skillfully shaped it to accent its contemporary styling. Seat and back cushions are tufted poly-foam, contoured to the steam-bent bucket seat and back frames. The base is polished, cast aluminum with rubber cushion guides. The design and workmanship are impeccable . . . they are Heywood-Wakefield. $189 complete with headrest and footrest.

Mr. Cappelletti appeared at Leone's courtesy of Allied Chemical Corp.

Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, chaplain at Phillips Academy will be chairman of one of two panels for Williston Academy's Fourth Annual National Education Conference being held on the school's campus at Easthampton on Oct. 17 and 18.

The secondary school panel which he will chair consists of educators on the secondary level, one a director of performing arts, and the other five concerned with teaching science, mathematics, history, English and language.

Nearly 200 school and college representatives will join in discussing the conference theme, "An examination of the social-emotional-behavioral problems confronting the student making the transition to higher education and the effect of such problems on the student's academic-intellectual achievement in higher education."

Rev. Baldwin is an instructor in religion and ethics on the Independence Foundation Teaching Endowment at Phillips Andover.

Worker Sprains Ankle In Fall

Wilfred Pelletier, 112 Allston St., Lawrence, narrowly missed serious injury Tuesday when a piece of heavy equipment dislodged a massive slab of rock covering a portion of the old Rogers Brook, dropping him into a canal running under the foundation of a Bartlet St. house.

Pelletier was working with a crew cleaning up the wreckage of two houses which were razed at Bartlet and Barnard to make way for new construction.

He was treated for a sprained ankle.

MRS. THOMAS ANDREW
(Casale)

Andrew – Leslie

Fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli and pew corsages of yellow pom pons decorated St. Augustine's Church for the Sept. 18 marriage of Susan Jane Leslie and Thomas Andrew. Rev. James A. Wenzel officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Webster Leslie, 14 Clark Rd. and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Andrew, 4 Fleming Ave.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in pure silk taffeta styled with a sabrina neckline of scalloped lace, long pointed sleeves, and a bouffant skirt with side and back panels of lace terminating in a full chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was tiered and caught to a crown of seed pearls arranged in a scalloped design. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, white roses and ivy streamers.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Julie Leslie, wore a floor length gown with a bodice of emerald green velvet, an Empire waistline and a mint green sheath skirt of crepe.

Her headpiece was a green velvet pillbox with a face veil and her flowers, a tapering cascade of dark green mums with gold wheat and ivy.

Dressed identically were two bridesmaids, Miss Pamela Ann Leslie, sister of the bride, and Miss Gail Winn of Andover.

Robert Grudzinski of Andover was best man and Frank Corelli and William Kneath, both of Andover, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Leslie wore frosted green Italian lace over satin and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a hot-pink crepe sheath with a jacket and matching accessories.

Following a reception at Andover Inn, the couple left for a wedding trip which included stops at Lake George, Ausable Chasm and the White Mountains.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are graduates of Andover High School. The bridegroom, a member of the Andover Fire Department, also attended the University of Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew will make their home at 40 Central St.

MRS. SPENCER ROLAND JEWETT
(Loring)

Jewett – Westfall

At a candlelight ceremony held in Christ Episcopal Church Sept. 25, Linda Agnes Westfall became the bride of Lt. Spencer Roland Jewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Jewett of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Rev. J. Edison Pike officiated and a reception was held afterward in the parish house of Christ Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dewing Westfall, 41 Summer St., was given in marriage by her father. She wore an Empire gown of silk organza over taffeta. Clusters of pearls and teardrops enhanced the bodice of re-embroidered French lace, and lace and pearls were at the sides of the full length A-line skirt. The chapel length detachable train, also beautified with lace and pearls, flowed from the neck of the bodice. Clusters of organza roses and pearls held the shoulder length veil of French silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Richard L. Leland, twin sister of the bride was the matron of honor and only attendant. She wore an Empire gown of Italian velvet and lace. Re-embroidered pink lace formed the bodice accenting the deep rose velvet A-line skirt. Scattered about the full length skirt were clusters of velvet roses with lace leaves. Her headpiece was a veiling of pink lace held by a cluster of roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and dark red roses.

Paul L. Whitley of Stoneham, brother-in-law of the bride, was the best man and Richard L. Leland of South Berwick, Maine, also a brother-in-law of the bride, and Lawrence Dewing Westfall, brother of the bride, serving as ushers.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Hospital for Infants and Children in Bayside, Long Island, N. Y. Lieutenant Jewett was graduated from the University of Utah, in Salt Lake City, and is presently serving in the Hohensfels Training Area in Germany where the couple will make their home.

Andona Ball

In A Word . .

Confection

In the 13th century, the apothecaries or compounders of drugs were called confectionarii; however, the term did not imply that these early pharmacists were makers of sweets.

At that time, sugar was believed to possess great medicinal properties. The confectionarii, whose name comes from the Latin word confectio (to compose), used it as an ingredient of various remedies.

By extension, the term confection eventually came to be applied to all sugary preparations and lost its original medical meaning—except in pharmacy, where it was used to denote a soft mass of sugar and water as a base for medicinal substances.

Weekday Biblical School In Twenty Second Year

The Weekday School of Biblical Studies, a project of the Andover Council of Churches, began its 22nd year Sept. 14 at South Church.

The school, held to equip students to handle the Bible with skill and understanding, is held with the cooperation of Andover Junior High School and in accord with state law. Students whose parents sign a "release-card" are dismissed from public school classes each Tuesday for this training.

The Bible is the school's primary textbook and examinations are given on Biblical content. Theological interpretations are left to the individual churches.

This year seventh graders will study the Old Testament and eighth and ninth graders will study the New Testament. The three-year program leads toward the presentation of diplomas to ninth graders at an annual Recognition service.

Teaching this year are: seventh grade - Mrs. Kenneth Minard, Mrs. John Murray and Mrs. J. Edison Pike; eighth grade - Rev. Hartland Gifford and Rev. Richard Streeter; ninth grade, Rev. Robert Bossdorf, Rev. Walter E. Aufrecht, director of Christian education for the council, is director of the school.

AUTHOR THYIA BJORN

Author Speaks At Free Church

A Swedish minister's daughter will speak Oct. 6 at a supper meeting of the Womens Union of Free Christian Church.

Thyia Terre Bjorn, dressed in the costume of her former homeland, will lecture on "This Is My Life." Mrs. Bjorn came to the United States with her family in 1924. Here she married Robert John Bjorn, also a Swede and began a career as a mother and homemaker.

Since then she has written several books including Papa's Wife, Papa's Daughter and It Could Only Happen in a Parsonage.

The cover dish supper meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. The business meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. with devotions led by Mrs. James Watt. Miss Ella Petrie will preside.

Mrs. Alexander Black is program chairman for the Union whose meetings are open to all women of Free Church.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Look and their family, Kirkland Dr., spent the week end in New York City where they visited the World's Fair.

Sylvia Circle Meets Oct. 14

The Sylvia Circle of Free Christian Church will meet Oct. 14 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. David MacDonald Jr., 81 Chestnut St. Mrs. Robert J. McClory will be co-hostess.

The group met last month for a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. David G. Roberts Jr.

The following officers have been named: Mrs. William Early and Mrs. Roberts, co-chairmen; Mrs. David Shephard, secretary; Mrs. MacDonald, treasurer; Mrs. John Hansen, telephone committee; Mrs. Robert J. McLaughlin, librarian; Mrs. Bernard Davey, program chairman; Mrs. J. Allyn Bradford, devotions; Mrs. Peter Carr, scrap book; and Mrs. Robert Peterson, publicity.

Parents would be very wise if they could learn as much as their teen-age children think they could teach them.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Coles' Nursing Home Staff

Coles' Nursing Home, located at 10 Summer Street in Andover, is truly a fine nursing home that offers many advantages. At Coles' patients are provided with fine meals, clean well-kept rooms, a comfortable atmosphere, excellent treatment, besides many extras that other larger nursing homes cannot match. Why? Because, Coles' is a small home. That is, Coles specializes in personalized care of its patients. In fact, the staff of fully qualified registered nurses at Coles' caters to each patient in such a way that they don't have to change their daily routine while at the nursing home; the nurses adjust to the patients' needs. This individual care, which is so important to patients, is certainly appreciated beyond compare and is available 24 hours a day. There's also extra care given in the kitchen, since many times patients require special foods in their diet. Therefore, in order to make every possible effort to please its patients, Coles will, upon request, prepare special diets. In all, Coles has a fine nursing home, an excellent program for its patients, and a competent staff of registered nurses.

Coles' Nursing Home invites your visit to its home-like, friendly atmosphere and hopes that you will call 475-1389 when you are looking for a nursing home - a small nursing home specializing in individual care. And when you do, you'll be more than reassured in your selection, as so many other Andover families have been in the past 25 years that Coles has been established.

Toddler Hit By Vehicle

Jane Kolodgy, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kolodgy, 34 Gray Rd., was reported in fair condition at Lawrence General Hospital where she was taken for injuries received when she was hit with a car late Monday afternoon.

The youngster was in the center of Gray Rd. when hit by a car driven by George F. Garland, 38 Prospect Rd.

Police investigation of the accident is not yet complete.

To be free, white and 21 doesn't mean a thing to the young man who doesn't look where he's going.

Negro Jobs Citizens' Topic

Andover Citizens for Equal Opportunities will lead off a four-program series with a discussion of Negro Employment in Massachusetts.

John J. Puma, staff assistant to the vice president of the Boston Edison Co. and a recent Sloane Fellow at MIT, will speak Oct. 26 at Kemper Auditorium, Phillips Academy.

He will emphasize the work of the Jobs Clearing House, the characteristics of Negro employees, the Negro's employment opportunities and the role of the Southern Negro in the Massachusetts job market.

At this same meeting the organization will elect officers.

Three other discussions, tentatively scheduled for Nov. 16, Feb. 9 and April 5, will follow.

The first will be on the theme, "Which Way Civil Rights?" Appearing will be representatives of SNCC, the NAACP, CORE and SCLC.

The third topic will be "The Voice of the Church." For this program members of the Andover clergy and a Boston minister active in the Civil Rights movement will debate the role of the churches in advancing civil rights.

In April prominent Boston-area Negroes will discuss educational motivation, de facto segregation, busing and other dominant educational issues of the day.

Reporting to members in a mailer this week, AC/-O said that in its first year it had received $314.77 in dues, donations and interest. Of this total, major sums went for support of Wide Horizons programs and supplies and printing.

Five Wide Horizons preschoolers were granted scholarships for Pike School's summer Young Explorers group, George Edmonds supervised a summer reading program at PA for 12 children and Dorothy Brennan of North Andover ran a six-week Wide Horizons camp for 15 youngsters.

Museum Offers Walking Tour

The fourth Walking Tour of Immigrant City will take place on Monday, Oct. 4. The tour will leave from in front of the Essex Co. offices at the east end of Essex Street in Lawrence at 2 p.m. The tour guide will be Thomas W. Leavitt, director of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum.

Lawrence, a planned city, was built overnight by a group of Boston businessmen as the Industrial Revolution in America quickened its pace. For this reason, and because of its colorful history during the rush of immigrants to America, Lawrence occupies a unique place in American history.

Divided into three parts, the tour takes about an hour and a half to complete. During the first part, the guide identifies and explains the role of the Merrimack River, the dam and the canals in the history of early Lawrence.

During the second part of the tour the guide comments on the significant homes, schools, stores and churches of Immigrant City in 1885.

During the last part of the tour, the guide explains the role of the factories as they were in 1912, on the eve of the famous strike.

There is no admission fee for the tour and no reservations are necessary. The Walking Tour is part of the educational program of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum.
